

HAPPY 1ST ANNIVERSARY HOLLYWOOD HOT RODS

By Black Dahlia

Hollywood Hot Rods, just up the road from the city of the same name, threw a cool one year anniversary party at their location in Burbank, CA, Sunday, Aug. 8, 2004. And it's been quite a successful year.

Been seen around

In addition to a steady flow of work, the shop has also been bolstered by features in various magazines and on the shop over the past year, and to show the uninitiated what they're all about. Hollywood Hot Rods, in particular owner Troy and his whip-cracking partner David, were very gracious hosts, making sure everything ran smoothly and everyone was having a good time.

Unfortunately, we'll have to wait another year till their second anniversary party. But with the amount of quality work that comes rollin' out of the place, I'm sure they'll be gracing the pages of Ol' Skool Rodz in the meantime!

MTV's show, Rides, (part of which was being filmed at the party).

Although not a car show, per se, there were enough cars, of all shapes and sizes on hand to fill both garage spaces and all the surrounding streets!

Friends and family relaxed, ate tasty BBQ, listened to killer music by Dawn Shipley and the Sharpshooters, kept cool with Italian ices, and laid their eyes on some impressive hunks of steel and, of course, talked shop.

George Barris was in attendance, as was son Brett who brought his nearly completed, recent creation, Ratula. Work by photographer Dale Rio lined the walls of the garage.

Great hosts

The party was an excellent way to thank all to those who have supported
